AUSTRIA'S CIVIL WAR RESUMES ON MUCH LARGER SCALE; TROOPS HAVE DIFFICULTY DRIVING NAZI REBELS FROM STRONGHOLDS

Nazis from Styria Retreat from That Province to Vienna's Mountain Regions, Reinforcing Those Already There; Casualties Heavy, Especially Among Government Troops Which Suffer from Snipers' Guns

By Alfred Tyrnauer

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
VIENNA, July 28—Austria's civil war resumed today on a larger and more deadly scale with regular government troops and Heimwehr experiencing the greatest difficulty in driving the Nazi rebels from their rugged strongholds in the steep, rocky mountains of the Carinthian Alps. Nazis from Styria had retreated from that Province to Vienna's mountain regions of Carinthia, reinforcing those already there and enabling them in many cases to offer successful resistance. Casualties were heavy, especially among the government troops which had to suffer the fire of sniping machine guns from rocky crags or the more guarded fire of sharpshooters from trees. It was the worst kind of guerrilla warfare; the kind of fighting every soldier hates, but it was reported in today's fighting the government troops and the civilian companions in arms, were meeting every challenge of the embattling Nazis and forcing their surrender or retreat further toward the Yugoslavian border.

The Nazis today held the cities of Donauw., population 18,000; Leoben, population, 12,000, and many other cities and towns, bringing up their forces, which government troops delayed by dynamiting a railway bridge, but its capture was costly to government forces, and retreating Nazis fought to the last ditch.

On entering the towns government troops in many cases suffered rapid fire from machine guns located in the stony towers of century old churches. It was reported in Vienna that the Nazis had even shot priests when they protested or resisted occupation of their churches for this purpose.

VIENNA, July 28—Half a million sorrowing Austrians lined the streets of this once gay capital to watch the funeral procession for the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, assassinated by Nazis in an attempted coup which has precipitated civil war. Burial of the diminutive Chancellor occurred almost 20 years to the day another similar burial was held, that of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, whose assassination was the signal for the outbreak of the world war.

VIENNA, July 28—Uncertainty as to who will succeed the slain Engelbert Dollfuss as Chancellor of Austria increased today when the name of Karl Vaugoin was mentioned for the post in Chancellor circles where it formerly was held to be a matter between Karl Schuschnigg, Minister of Education and Prince Von Starhemberg. Vaugoin was former head of the party which put Dollfuss into power.

VIENNA, July 28—(INS)—Little Austria shook her fist in the face of the bullies of Germany today. While the martyr Chancellor Dollfuss went to his last rest in a hero's grave and Vienna mourned him as the Imperial City once mourned a dead emperor, his temporary successor, Prince Rudiger Von Starhemberg, flung the direct charge of murder at Berlin. Austria with 6,000,000 inhabitants thus today attacked the German giant ten times larger. Starhemberg was the Austrian spokesman and Austria could afford audacity because Starhemberg knew that behind Austria today is the civilized world.

Hitler has proffered the hand of peace towards Austria. Hitler wanted Austria. The Austrian Nazis were his instruments. Today Hitler feels the blood of Dollfuss is too great a weight for him to carry and he has offered to send Von Papen as his envoy to this country and he has expressed in his letter to Von Papen his abhorrence of the murder of Dollfuss.

But Austria through her spokesman, Starhemberg, reacted to Hitler thus in a broadcast to the Austrian people, "National Socialists are National Bolsheviks. Austria is a barrier against 20th Century barbarism. The Nazis are desperadoes. Austria will never compromise with National Socialists. Rigorous justice will be done to those guilty of the death of Dollfuss."

These are the low points in his indictment of Hitler but Starhemberg grew more pointed. "Efforts of certain elements outside of Austria to shake off responsibility will be without avail."

Dismiss Charge Against Mayor of Burlington

BURLINGTON, July 28—Mayor Thomas J. Johnson appeared last night before Justice of the Peace David Dugan to answer to a charge of assault and battery, but the complaint in the case did not. He was in the county jail at Mount Holly.

The charge against Mayor Johnson, growing out of his campaign against the number racket in the city, was dismissed.

At 7 o'clock, the hour set for the mayor's hearing, Mr. Johnson was on hand with his counsel, City Solicitor Thomas Begley and Alexander Denbo. So was Eugene Wales, of Camden, attorney for Roy Robertson, of 210 St. Mary's street, who filed a complaint against the mayor, charging him with putting his hand in his pocket and forcing him to reveal the contents of the pocket without reading a warrant. Robertson, however, was among the missing.

Investigation disclosed that Robertson was taken in custody here this afternoon by State troopers of the Columbus barracks on the complaint of Mrs. Edna Perry, Burlington County probation officer, that he had violated parole.

According to the troopers, Robertson was fined by Judge Frank A. Hendrickson about two months ago on the charge of having number slips in his possession. Lacking the money, he was paroled under court direction to pay the fine in weekly installments. He allegedly had made no payments.

The prisoner will be held at the county jail to await Judge Hendrickson's disposition of the case. Robertson's counsel asked a postponement of the case against the mayor, but Justice of the Peace Dugan refused it. He declared the case had already been postponed twice, and in view of the character of the complainant, he would dismiss the charge.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS UNDER LWD PROJECTS

Morrisville Boro' to Improve Streets and Water Distribution System

TO START IN SEPTEMBER

MORRISVILLE, July 28—John S. Roberts, Jr., Bucks County Administrator of L. W. D., appeared before common council here last night and outlined the state's position in regards to future L. W. D. work.

Mr. Roberts said state officials at Harrisburg urged that the boroughs set up projects which could be started in September. Although he said he had nothing to work on at the present, he believed the money would be forthcoming, and at that time work on a larger scale could be carried on.

Mr. Roberts also stated the boroughs that got their applications in first for these projects, would be given preference in the allotment of the money.

The speaker explained L. W. D. has a long time program in Pennsylvania, all projects being worked out over a six months period. Each one of the projects is to be solely a relief proposition, only for those people who are on relief.

Morrisville is going to set up two projects; one the street proposition and the other, water works proposition.

The street proposition will include improvements in Chester Manor where 18-foot streets will be made and one block on Osborne avenue, between Pennsylvania and Stockham avenues, which is also to be improved.

The water project will include the laying of water mains in Chester Manor and the replacing of smaller lines on Cleveland avenue, and the lowering of many of the water mains throughout the streets in the borough.

Borough secretary, William H. Howell, was instructed to notify two Morrisville fire companies to discontinue service in Lower Makefield Township on August 1st, with the exception of two sections, Edgell Gardens and Arborlea. Lower Makefield Township had been asked previously to contribute $400 to the maintenance of the Morrisville Fire company and failure to make this contribution, with the exception of the two sections mentioned, is the reason for discontinuing service in Lower Makefield Township.

Borough Council voted to purchase two sets of grappling hooks, one set to be placed at each fire station.

INJURES THREE FINGERS

The fingers were lacerated, and contused, and two stitches were taken in each at the Harriman Hospital. The three boys are camping at Edgely.

FRACTURES RIB

Slipping while working in the basement of his home, James Laughlin, 1027 Pond street, fractured a rib yesterday. He was taken to Harriman Hospital for treatment.

THE PRICE OF A MANAGED ECONOMY

By FRANK KNOX

Editor and Publisher of the Chicago Daily News

In the article printed today in the series by Frank Knox, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, he deals with conditions in Russia. The series by Mr. Knox deals generally with "The Price of a Managed Economy" as found after an extensive tour of Europe.

ARTICLE FIVE

RUSSIA'S PLANS NOT FOR US

Paris, France, June 5.

Russia, from which country I have just come, is undoubtedly engaged in a monumental experiment in the field of managed economy and planned society. The experiment may, or may not, be suited to the Russian temperament and to Russian conditions. Time alone will determine that.

Certainly my visit was too short to warrant my expressing any dogmatic views on Russia's destiny. I did stay long enough, however, to learn that the Russian experiment offers nothing whatever for America to imitate. Only an utterly distorted conception of the American spirit and of the peculiar American genius for self-help and self-government could find in Moscow any inspiration or suggestion that would be helpful in the United States.

Of the ideals of a free, democratic state which may be found in theory in the Marx-Lenin school of political philosophy, it can be said with truth that our forbears sought a new world in which to give them expression long before Marx or Lenin was born, when Russia was still wallowing in a state of barbaric feudalism, shot through with the Tartar genius for exploitation of the weak by the strong. Of the remainder of the social and economic tenets of Russian sovietism, it may be said that they are unsuited to our use because:

1. They must operate within the frame of a political organization repugnant to every principle underlying a free democracy.

2. They must have for their theater of activity a country suffering from a shortage of almost every commodity essential to a bare living, totally lacking not only in the luxuries of life but even in those things which contribute to moderate comfort.

3. They must have as their adherents and beneficiaries people whose history has known no freedom, whose training and experience in local and national self-government have been nil, people who are accustomed to a standard of living only a step above that of the beasts that frequently are housed with them under the same roof.

4. Their practice must be accompanied by a military discipline which, without resort to trial or court, will enforce laws forbidding freedom of speech, freedom of the press, the right of assembly and petition and mandatory trial by jury.

Their successful maintenance demands compulsory military service, denial of the right of participation in government by any but members of the one political party that is allowed to exist, supervision of all social and, particularly, all political activity by a secret police which strikes in the dark, and from whose arbitrary action there is no appeal.

How can you fit such a system into the pattern of a free democracy?

TO WIDEN HIGHWAY TO 4-LANE TRAFFIC ROUTE

Extension To Be Made From Morrisville to Fallsington Underpass

WILL OPEN BIDS AUG. 17

Plans have been completed by the Pennsylvania State Highway Department for widening the Lincoln Highway between Morrisville and the Fallsington underpass, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The length of road which is to be widened is 2.4 miles and it will be widened from 20 to 40 feet with concrete paving so as to accommodate heavy traffic.

Bids will be opened for the work on August 17th and it is the plan of the department to have it completed before the winter months, according to Samuel S. Lewis.

The project is the beginning of a program for a 40-foot highway from Morrisville to Janney.

Lewis said he is interested in completing the super highway from the end of a recently built section at Janney to Yardley. This will complete improvement of a new by-pass between Roosevelt boulevard at Philadelphia City Line to a proposed bridge at Yardley—about 11.6 miles.

With construction of the proposed bridge across the Delaware River at Yardley, a connection will be made with the Brunswick super highway in New Jersey—the main road to New York.

From Janney it is proposed to widen the present 20-foot pavement to 40 feet, providing four lanes to Morrisville.

Traffic over the existing road is sufficiently heavy, Lewis said, to warrant extension of the super highway and widening of the present Lincoln highway.

FALLS FROM CHAIR

Falling from the back of a chair at her home yesterday, Genevieve Castor, 733 Pond street, struck her hip. One stitch was taken in the cut at Harriman Hospital.

Complete Inflation of The World's Biggest Balloon

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 28—(INS)—Inflation of the world's largest balloon which is to carry three men high into the stratosphere was completed early today and all was in readiness for the takeoff.

The three who will make the daring ascent from Moonlight Valley in the Black Hills are Maj. William E. Kepner, pilot; Capt. Albert W. Stevens, scientific observer, and Capt. Orvil Anderson, alternate pilot.

Weather conditions were pronounced ideal for the flight by Capt. Stevens after a last minute study of meteorological conditions. Leaving the natural basin here, the trio hope to reach an altitude of fifteen miles to make scientific observations.

Inflation of the giant balloon with hydrogen gas proceeded at the rate of 50,000 cubic feet an hour until 210,000 feet had poured into the huge fabric bag.

At 1.30 a. m., the task of inflating the bag was completed, and the three airmen made a final inspection of the metal gondola and the laboratory of scientific instruments within it.

The ground inspection showed all apparatus to be working well, Major Kepner announced.

A huge audience of between 20,000 and 25,000 persons witnessed the last preparations. They had gathered from far and near to watch from the rim of the natural amphitheatre while the ground crew toiled throughout the night.

IMPRESSIONS OF FRENCH COLLEGE ARE PRESENTED

Miss Marian Monaco, McKinley Street, Tells of The Difference of Methods

HAD A SCHOLARSHIP

Impressions gained in a year's study at the Sorbonne, connected with the University of Paris, France, have been condensed by Miss Marian Monaco, 173 McKinley street, who in the accompanying article deals with the difference noted in the French and American colleges.

Miss Monaco, who took up her Freshman and Sophomore years of study at the New Jersey College for Women at New Brunswick, N. J., was awarded a scholarship for one year in the Sorbonne by the New Jersey College. Miss Monaco, who is quite a linguist, found her stay in France most enjoyable, and by residing with a French family came in contact with the everyday life of the French people. She accompanied the Delaware Group, composed of 40 students, to Europe for further study. The local school is a graduate of Bristol high school, class of February, 1931, and in the Fall will re-enter the New Brunswick College as a senior.

The student's impressions of the different methods in the French college and those of this country are herewith touched upon:

With all its diversions of scene and experience, the year in France is one requiring extremely hard study; harder, according to unanimous opinion of students from different colleges in America, than any year in an undergraduate school at home. Before considering the French method of education, one must realize that the American student, having his subjects of study equal in cultural and informational value to courses offered in that year in an average American college as well as a foreign language to master, must be prepared to do harder and more continuous work than is required in an undergraduate year here.

Besides this first and general difficulty confronted by any American student who studies abroad, there is the question of the French system of education with which one must become acquainted. The methods of instruction in France and consequently the necessary methods of study are quite different from ours and demand a high degree of intellectual initiative and concentration of effort.

In the first place, the French system has a broad curriculum, which, by the way, is fixed by the government itself. For French education is organized, directed, and superintended by the State. The supreme head is the minister of education, who has a director in each "department" (geographical division) to help him. To go back to the curriculum and to show how broad it is, let us use as an example the average twelve-year-old French boy who studies in the "lycee"—the public school. He is in the seventh grade and besides the general courses given here as geography, history, mathematics, and his native language and literature, he is in his second year of Latin, English, and "histoire naturelle" or biology.

Secondly, the French system demands a greater sense of individual responsibility. It is based on the formal lecture in vogue in French universities, supplemented by collateral readings on the part of the student. No one tells the student how much outside reading to do, nor when to do it. But he is expected to thoroughly "digest" the subjects and then report in a carefully organized "composition" his individual ideas on a given

ACCUSE WATER CO. OF "PADDING" COSTS TO STATE BODY

Nearly $10,000 Added to The Figures Filed With The Public Service Commission

HULMEVILLE OBJECTS

Water Main Extension Not Likely To Be Made In Borough

HULMEVILLE, July 28—At a meeting called by the citizens' committee of Hulmeville borough which has been gathering data relative to the possibility of securing a water supply for the borough, residents of the town had explained to them last evening the status of affairs. The session took place in the borough council chamber, with George M. Dicken presiding.

Figures which have been secured by the committee were submitted, and the question thoroughly gone over, with many questions being asked and answered. The citizens committee which has worked tirelessly in the matter is composed of Messrs. Washington Head, C. Wesley Haefner, Richard A. Hopkins, assisted by Mr. Dicken.

The group informed that it has conferred frequently with representatives of Langhorne Spring Water Company, and that when efforts were first made toward an agreement it was presumed such would be the result, but that at present the efforts are unsuccessful. It was reported that the Langhorne Spring Water Company submitted an estimate to the committee for installation of a water system, the figure being $17,910.40, but figures for the same work submitted to the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission by the water company were nearly $10,000 higher, or $27,139.00.

The charter held by the company takes in only a portion of Hulmeville borough, in the vicinity of Bellevue and Fairview avenues, and Walnut street. Most of the area governed by the charter is now served with water by the company. The local committee's endeavor was to have the said company extend its mains into the other parts of the borough, with the property owners agreeing to pay for pipes from the curb line to their properties. Seventy-five property owners had agreed to have connections made if the mains were extended, the annual income from the system approximating $1,386. The committee has been endeavoring to have the water company place the mains along the streets of the borough, with the property holders taking care of the expenditure for the pipes from the curb into the homes.

The consensus of opinion at the meeting was that the water company is not anxious to take up the proposition unless the expenses for mains were paid for by someone other than the company. This item of expense it was believed could not be cared for locally.

The committee announced it had gone as far in the matter as it can at the present time.

The figure of $17,910.40 was given the local committee by the water company representatives, after the company had had a complete survey made of the section of the borough not served with water. This estimate does not agree with that given by the water company to the public service commission, the latter estimate being considerably "padded," it was stated.

The water company's proposition was that the property owners care for the expense of laying the mains, and then water would be supplied on a meter basis.

The general opinion at the meeting was that the claims of the water company to the Public Service Commission could be refuted if funds were provided to push the cause further. A letter from the Commission to the local committee was read in which it was stated "The Commission cannot compel a company to extend service to territory where it has no charter rights."

Formerly a committee composed of Hulmeville council members had worked in conjunction with the citizens' committee in an effort to secure the water supply. The council committee had been discharged a few months ago, and the work was continued by the citizens committee. A decision was reached that the papers containing all data and estimates be retained by the local committee.

TOO MANY ESCAPES

How can our prisons be made safe?

Too many convicts are making their escape as did John Dillinger, to prey on society.

On the same day that the country's most notorious outlaw was shot to death in Chicago, three men described as desperate killers made their escape from the Texas state prison. They fled from the death house over the walls to freedom. Three others who attempted to escape with them were left behind, one dead and two wounded, the victims of guards' bullets.

How did the leader obtain the pistol with which he held up the guard who brought him his evening meal and obtained the keys to his companions' cells?

This is a question that was not answered in the news dispatches telling of the escape. It is one which the prison authorities will have to probe in investigating the escape.

That the escape was carefully planned is indicated by the fact that two automobiles were in waiting for the fugitives. A rifle was taken from one of them by the fleeing convicts and shots exchanged with a guard before the two cars with the fugitives in them sped away.

Prison breaks have become of too frequent occurrence. It probably would be impossible to prevent an occasional escape by men desperate enough to brave any odds for freedom. The frequency with which such escapes are being made, however, indicates an oversight somewhere or a lack of proper diligence on the part of prison authorities.

Is too much leniency being shown convicts? Are too many liberties being permitted them? The Texas break occurred during the progress of a prison baseball game. Was the force of guards reduced dangerously by attendance upon the game? Prison authorities generally need to check up on the safeguards they are supposed to maintain against escape.

The country has had enough John Dillingers to last it for a while.

MORE TOURISTS OUT

That Americans are taking to the roads on vacation jaunts in greater number than last year is indicated by the increased number of visitors who thus far this year have visited Yellowstone National Park.

More than 20,000 have stopped over to date, according to the superintendent, Roger W. Toll. For the same period last year, the total was less than 7,000. The greatest number ever to view the park's wonders in a single year was 260,000 in 1929, when business was booming and money plentiful. The superintendent sees a possibility that this may be reached if not broken this year. He has little doubt that at least 200,000 persons will visit the park.

The increase in the number of visitors entering the park is evidence that business is improving. People don't go on vacation trips when work is slack and money scarce and hard to get. When tourist traffic picks up materially, industrial conditions generally are on the mend. This has been demonstrated in the past, and still is true.

Twins seem very light punishment for a crooner.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

DENVER — (INS) — In a single week, 44,000 Denver motorists drove through red traffic lights at a single intersection. Within a period of 48 hours, 1,500 cars parked illegally in a single downtown block. Gordon A. Holmes, safety chairman of the Denver Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations, quoted these figures from a recent survey made by relief workers to illustrate the need for more rigid enforcement of traffic rules in the city.

Impressions of French College Are Presented

title. This composition is written in a three-hour period, and is really quite difficult for American college students. Approximately a week before or after the written "exam" the student comes in close individual contact with the vigorous and stimulating personalities of experts in each field of study. This expert examines the student orally. In fact, the French method puts much more stress on oral work than the American method. Even in the grade schools, the students always have oral as well as written final "exams." Such an oral "exam" proves the utility of "examining." And one would think it would be necessary to "exam" after six months of listening to formal lectures and reading "on your own" without a "sprung quiz" or an "eight-weeks" exam" to check up on one's work. On the contrary, one must have a full night's sleep to be able to answer in good French style any detailed question the professor might wish to ask. Moreover, the examiner expects you to have "felt" and "dissected" the subject in the comprehensive French fashion. To the Frenchman, it is scholarship for scholarship. Each subject is studied for itself and for the sake of knowledge. Knowledge is a practical implement France never lets aside. To attain knowledge of the universe and of itself is its greatest pleasure. There is always much stress upon doctrine—everything is extraordinarily lavish of ideas.

This is due to the fact that the culture of the Frenchman has been handed down to him through the ages from the traditions and laws of Rome. Rome is to him the great source of wisdom and logic, in particular. Naturally, the Frenchman stresses the intellectual, the logical.

Rather than this Latin influence, America has witnessed the Anglo-Saxon or Nordic influence. The American university is based on the English university, more or less. For it was New England who gave the tone to the culture of Harvard and Yale, and thus, determined the type of American university. The American method is not so lavish of pure theory, doctrine, and logic as the French method. In America, the idea is presented under a moral light as a principle or as a result of direct experience. In other words, it is more utilitarian and practical.

Above all, the American college permits much more individuality and freedom of thought and style, whereas everyone in France is molded by the same, rigid intellectual training. Extra-curricular activities are very important in American college life, but student governments, clubs, school papers are few in the French college. There is even comparatively little physical education in the French school system. However, since the war, there has been a great attempt to introduce more sports.

As for the dormitory life, discipline plays a greater part in the French schools. And this is only natural when one considers the rigid and thorough schedule. All the regulations are much stricter than the average American ones. The young women must not leave the college buildings during the week. Only on certain week-ends are they allowed to visit parents or relatives. Sophomore, fudge parties, and football games are unknown to the French girl student.

The French method, then, requires more individual initiative to study, more hours of harder work. It is more concerned with logic and theory than the American method. During a year of study abroad one can feel oneself grow intellectually. But our American method with its respect for individuality, with its more practical ideals is, after all, more suited to American and Nordic life and organization.

Oppose Local Bus Co. Trenton Application

tion and also because he promised a reduced fare of five rides for 30 cents.

Hugh B. Eastburn, counsel for the Delaware River Coach Company and the trolley concern, told the commission that his clients only sought approval of a route, inasmuch as they already held franchise rights to run buses here. He said the Delaware River concern was prepared to give adequate bus service immediately also at a reduced rate of fare. He pointed out that his company held a certificate from the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission.

Herbert W. Baekes, representing Richmond, questioned the Delaware River company's certification by the Pennsylvania commission, and urged the board to lay the entire matter over until the Pennsylvania authorities had had an opportunity to pass upon Richmond's application.

Joe E. Brown and Fight Pictures Are Attractions

Edward Lynn, manager of the Grand Theatre, has arranged a double attraction program for this afternoon and night. He will present that very popular comedian, Joe E. Brown, in "A Very Honorable Guy," which is considered one of the greatest laugh shows of the season.

This funny fellow will be seen in some of the most complicated and funny positions that he has ever been seen in. His laugh-provoking ability is so well known that it is worth a person's time to have a good, hearty laugh with him. There will also be presented the pictures of the recent championship fight between Primo Carnera and Max Baer, in which Baer won the title. These pictures show each and every blow struck in this encounter, and also the knock-downs are perfect as they are in slow motion and should set at rest the controversy that exists concerning this much-discussed bout. It is said that a ring-side seat was not as good as a seat in the theatre, as the camera did not miss a thing. There will also be the usual cartoon comedy and news events.
